A SPECTACULAR SUCCESS

The Naval Manœuvres at New York Very Interesting.

Clear Skies, Bright Sunshine and Rearing Breezes Tend to Lend a Charm to the Scene.

QUARANTINE, N. Y., April 26.—The phantom ships which sailed in the mists of the sea yesterday, were bright and majestic realities in the glorious sunshine this morning.

The only element wanting to ensure the triumphant spectacular success of the real naval parade was supplied by the perfect weather. Not a trace of the steel gray clouds and the fog and rain of yesterday was left. Clear skies, bright sunlight and floating breezes gave a setting to the panoramic scene whose beauty and suggestiveness have never been surpassed.

In the sharp, clear light of the early morning every distinctive feature of the great war ships stood out in bold relief, anchored in two great columns, stretched over the whole surface of the bay, the vessels of each of the ten nationalities represented could be distinguished at a glance.

The snow white hulks and graceful outlines of the American fleet were not more conspicuous than the huge black hulk of the british flagship, the towering, military masts of the French Jean Bart or the sharp lines of the crack German cruiser Kaiserine Augusta, with her formidable krupp guns, offset by the squat form outlines of the Dutch Van Speyk, which again contrasted with the graceful build of the swift Argentine Simon de Julio, and the massive armament of the Brazilian battleship Aquidabah.

The most striking feature of the scene was the absolute silence that prevailed during the early hours of the day. Each of these formidable death-dealing engines of destruction lay motionless at anchor, reflecting in the placid waters of the bay at the early morning rays of the sun like the often quoted "Painted ship—a painted ocean." There was a grim suggestiveness of repressed force and stern discipline in this impressive quietude. But it did not last long

As the preparations for breaking anchor began the scene changed to one of brisk animation and life. The sea became alive with obscure craft of every description and the patrol boats had a difficult task to keep the anchorage grounds clear of intruders and to permit the formation of the columns in which, in stately procession, the vessels were to pass through the Narrows into the upper bay and to move up the Hudson river to their assigned stations, and there to await tomorrow's review.

It was shortly after 9 o'clock when Admiral Gherardi's flag ship gave the preliminary signal to break anchor and fall into line. The starboard, or right hand column, looking inward the hose of the vessels, commanded by the British admiral, Sir John Hopkins, consisted of foreign vessels.

The port, or left hand column, commanded by Admiral Gherardi, consist ed of the American fleet, with some of the visitors thrown in to balance.

The start was made so promptly at 9 45, that thousands of spectators who had gathered to witness the spectacular from the Navesink Highlands and the Heights of Fort Wadsworth and other points of advantage on Staten Island, had hardly taken up positions before the guns of Fort Hamilton and Fort Wadsworth boomed their welcome to the advancing fleet, steaming neck and neck, the two admirals and their flagships leading the way at a rate of between eight and nine knots an hour.

The contest presented by the snow white American fleet and the dark hulled foreigner was very perceptible as they moved along side by side, each heightening the effects of the other. The two schools of naval architecture, (for nearly all the ships in the fleet not American built were of English construction,) were strongly marked, and every patriot felt within a glow of pride that the new navy of the United States did not suffer by the comparison. The time occupied in passing the forts was exactly half an hour. The naval ships, after passing the Narrows, entered the upper bay and the fleet of excursion steamers and yachts and big boats fell in and became a volunteer escort.

The scene then became one of combined grace, animation and beauty never to be forgotten. The absence of cannonading left the air clear and every outline of the magnificent ships stood out in luminous view against the cloudless sky. The flags of the different nationalities and even the names of the ships were clearly discernable from either shore.

The fleets were proceeded by navy yard tugs and patrol steamers, whose duty it was to keep the course clear. The way was brought up by four revenue cruisers. No vessels of any kind were allowed to break through this line. The ships s'anted up the river until the Philadelphia and the Blake reached a point opposite Eighty-ninth street, when the signal was given to anchor. The rear of the double line was opposite West Thirty-fourth street, and was held by the Maintonomoh. The Dolphin remains at Twenty second street until the president boards her at 10 o'clock tomorrow, to review the ships. Captain Rogers, U. S. N., had charge of the harbor and the channels while the fleets were moving up to their anchorage.

LIGHT INCHES OF SNOW

Fell in Minnesota Last Night and Yet This is Beautiful Spring.

ST. PAUL, April 26.—Another big snow storm is in progress in the northern part of the state. Eight inches of snow is reported to have fallen at Brainard and it is still coming down. In this city light rain has been falling since midnight.

TAYLOR WILL STICK.

To Retain His Place on the Mississippi River Commission.

Through the Diplomacy of the Southern Members of Congress He Will Remain in His Position.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—It is settled that Judge R. S. Taylor, of Fort Wayne, will be allowed to retain his sincure, the Mississippi river commissionership, for four more long years. Taylor was appointed by Arthur, and was allowed to remain during the Cleveland first administration, and, of course, by the Harrison administration. He has now been in office ten years, drawing $4,500 a year. The duties of this office consist in making semi-annual trips down the Mississippi river to "inspect" the improvements made under the war department and make certain recommendations to congress. It is a place much sought after, because the commissioner can discharge the duties without neglecting his own private business. The commissioner gets inaugurated from St. Louis to New Orleans, when making the semi annual trips down the river in a government boat, at all the principal river ports. In fact, the boat ride is a continuous banquet. For this reason there are over 100 applications for Taylors place. Taylor lives in Fort Wayne, where he is leading republican. He is an able lawyer, and if T. McDonald, the millionaire electric light man, pays him $10,000 a year to look after his patents and to see that they are not infringed upon.

A few weeks before Mr. Cleveland came in he was retained by the government to prosecute a suit before the United States courts to annul the Bellner telephone patent, which, it is alleged, was obtained through fraud by the Bell Telephone company to perpetuate the monopoly. For this service Taylor will no doubt get $25,000 or more.

On account of the compensation derived from the government on account of this case Taylor did not expect to retain the Mississippi river commissionership and the president was about to appoint a democrat in his place, when the southern members of congress from the Mississippi states raised a howl against Taylor's removal. Congressman Catching, of Mississippi, who was an original anti-Cleveland man, became President Cleveland had not turned out the rascals fast enough eight years ago, told the president a few days ago that the Mississippi river would go to the dogs if Taylor was not allowed to remain on the commission. It is understood that in order to pacify the Mississippi and Louisiana members the president has promised not to remove Taylor. The same influences was exerted eight years ago to save Taylor. Taylor will remain on the commission and Mr. Cleveland will be shorn for keeping him in office. Yet were it not for democratic influence in his behalf Taylor would make room for a democrat.

Catchings is Speaker Crisp's right hand man, and should Taylor be turned out to make room for a democrat, he would no doubt use his influence to prevent the confirmation of the democratic successor. It is alleged that the south wants Taylor retained in order to secure the support of republican congressmen to obtain large appropriations for the improvement of the Mississippi river, which improvements are really intended for the protection of the rice and sugar plantations by a system of levees and not so much for the benefit of navigation. These men here say that these appropriations are not strictly "Jeffersonian," but they must be had to offset the large amount of money distributed in the south for pensions. It puts some of the public money in circulation in the south.

While the Mississippi delegation is exerting itself to keep an Indiana republican in office the same delegation is howling because the administration is slow in turning the Mississippi republicans out of office. President Cleveland is a better democrat than the men who have been calling him a mugwump, and were it not for democratic congressional interference he would turn the rascals out fast enough. There is not a republican in office now who has not a democratic senator and half a dozen democratic members of the house trying to keep him in office.

SAYS the Toronto Evening Star: If the Emerald Isle obtains a legislature of its very own, will cute old Uncle Sam scheme for annexation to his own big land the rich bogs, potato patches and shillaleh groves that lie at England's west door? The old gentleman whose headquarters are at the pretty city on the Potomac is always wide-awake for its own advancement, and in these days he seems desirous of securing territory abroad. He appears disposed to abandon the old policy; he has his eye on the fertile islands of the Pacific. Why should he not want a foothold in the Atlantic, off the coast of Europe? People of the United States have given money to Ireland to aid in the agitation for home rule, and it is just possible that some day in the future a large-hearted Yankee will ask why Ireland should not be a part of the land of the star spangled eagle.

MANY KILLED

By a Cyclone Which Swept Over Oklahoma Territory.

Houses and Barns Leveled to the Ground and the Loss of Property is Great.

MORRIS, O. T., April 26.—A terrible cyclone, resulting in the death of ten and possibly twenty people, passed over this section of the country last night. J. O. Connor and family of five were killed outright. So was a man named Banks. Henry Clements. A baby of Bateman's was killed by a hailstone while being carried in its father's arms. Thomas Weaver had an arm broken. All houses and barns in the way of the storm were levelled to the ground. The loss to property is heavy.

LATER.

MORRIS, O. T., April 25.—The country west and southwest of here was swept by a terrible cyclone at 7:30 o'clock last evening. Endless damage was done. Just how much will not be known until the telegraph communication, destroyed by the storm is restored.

The news at hand makes it certain that ten people were killed, as many more injured and untold property destroyed.

Among the dead are J. O. Connor and his whole family, consisting of five members, Mr. Banks, H. C. Clements, and a child of Henry Bateman. Thomas Weaver had his arm broken and was otherwise injured and is in a serious condition. Three of Mr. Bank's family were seriously and perhaps fatally injured. Their house was blown to atoms and the family only extricated after desperate efforts had been put forth.

Philip Dyer's house was moved twenty feet. His invalid wife and babe, who were in the second story at the time the storm came up, were carried away in the building, but miraculously escaped serious injury. Frank Brown's house was blown away just as he and the family escaped. Most of the people escaped to their cyclone caves, having had warning of the impending danger.

Further casualties cannot be ascertained, but it seems certain that there were more. Though the cyclone lasted but a minute or so the wreck left in its wake was awful. A patch half a mile in width and eight miles long was laid waste. Houses, barns and everything in its way went down. Telegraph wires and poles were blown down for miles around, and for this reason the particulars of the storm are not fully known. The storm passed over Guthrie, Oklahoma, but did no damage there.

GUTHRIE, O. T., April 26.—A cyclone passed over Oklahoma yesterday afternoon which did considerable damage, and was followed by a second one last night which resulted in great loss of life and property. West of here one man was killed and three children were injured.

The village of Keokuk, forty miles southeast of here, is reported swept away, but no particulars are obtainable. East of Norman five people were killed. One man was carried a long distance and buried to the ground, breaking his neck. Several others were killed by houses falling on them. One man was hurled into a creek and drowned.

Near Moore one man was killed and several were injured and a number of houses were demolished. West of Norman ten buildings were swept away and half a dozen people seriously injured.

Eight miles north of Norman the large house of Patrick O'Connor was demolished and twelve people were killed. O'Conner's dead body was found a mile away. A school teacher who boarded there was carried two miles and her body fearfully crushed and torn.

The people all over the neighborhood had gathered into this house believing it to be safe because built of very heavy timbers, but it proved a veritable death trap

CHEAPER WHISKY

May Be the Result of a Meeting at Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 26.—Seven of the nine directors of the whisky trust met in this city yesterday and expressed themselves as favor of a change in the policy of the trust, which, it adopted, it is said, will mean a renewal of the battle against opposition distilleries more vigorous than has yet characterized the warfare. It will mean an issue of bonds running into the millions, but will have as one of its probable consequences cheaper whisky in certain sections of the country, and the introduction upon the field of the trust as its own distributor. J. R. Greenhut, president, John Begg, vice president; W. H. Hobart, treasurer, P. J. Hennessey, secretary; L. H. Green, Nelson Morris and J. W. Frisbary were the directors who discussed this proposition. They adjourned without action, to meet again today, when, it is stated, a decision of the momentous question will be reached.

CHILI VIGILANT.

She is Watching the United States Reaction Closely.

VALPARAISO, April 26.—All the streets and the United States legation here are being closely watched by Chilian police and detectives. The authorities believe that Blondell, Baily and other criminals are still being sheltered by United States Minister Egan. Holly is one of the men to whom Mr. Egan offered an asylum. It was supposed he had escaped after Secretary Gresham instructed Minister Egan to cease affording him the protection of the United States, but reports obtained by detectives from the servants in adjoining houses have led to the belief that Holly, as well as others whose capture is desired by the Chilian government, are still in the legation house.

WILL GO TO LEIPSIC

An Illinois Man Captures Prof. Diedrich's Place.

A. T. Sullivan Made Postmaster at Brooklyn—Don M. Dickinson Director of the Union Pacific.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The president today announced the following appointments:

To be government directors of the Union Pacific Railway company, Henry F. Dimick, of New York; Don M. Dickinson, of Michigan; J. W. Doane, of Illinois, Fitzhugh Lee of Virginia, Jos. W. Paddock, of Nebraska.

Otto Doederlein, of Illinois, to be consul of the United States at Leipsic.

David G. Browne to be comptroller of customs for the district of Montana and Idaho.

A. T. Sullivan to be postmaster at Brooklyn.

Orlando M. Packard, of Plymouth, has reason to feel very much encouraged tonight, for Senator Turpie told him that his appointment as bank examiner for Indiana was almost a foregone conclusion.

This morning Senator Turpie and Representative Conn went with Mr. Packard to see Comptroller Eckles, who then assumes the duties of his office. It is believed that Mr. Packard's appointment will be decided within a few days.

Senator Voorhees has been feeling badly for a few days and has not been able to get around much in quest of office for his Hoosier friends.

Representative Conn, Colonel Johnson and Editor Starr, of the Goshen News, left for Indiana today. Mr. Conn says he is doing fairly well as regards postoffice appointments for his district, still the changes are not being made as rapidly as he would like. There are four postmasters against whom he has filed charges who will be removed in a few days, he believes.

Jason Brown is very well pleased over the success he is having in turning the republican postmasters out, and appointing democrats to the vacancies in his district. Out of ten appointments for Indiana today Mr. Brown secured five for his district.

MICHIGAN WILL NOT ACCEPT

DETROIT, Mich., April 26.—Hon. Don M. Dickinson, whose appointment as one of the government directors of the Union Pacific railway was announced today by President Cleveland, states positively that he will not accept it.

IS IT CHOLERA?

Death of Mrs. Margaret Goodwin at Indianapolis.

Her Husband and Children Violently Ill—Death Other Which Was Driven From a Contaminated Well.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 26.—Mrs. Margaret Goodwin, of Park avenue, this city, died yesterday. Her husband and three children are violently ill. Several of the attendants upon the afflicted family have been prostrated and there is fear that cholera is the cause. In the case of Mrs. Goodwin the disease was well defined.

The family drew supplies from an open well and the water is supposed to have been contaminated by rats dying of trichinosis poisoning which had fallen in. The sanitary conditions are so bad that the house has been quarantined. The recovery of the ailing members of the Goodwin family is greatly doubted.

SECRETARY CARLISLE

Starts a Journey, Leaving Mr. Hamlin in His Office.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The president today designated Assistant Secretary Hamlin to act as secretary of the treasury in the absence of Secretary Carlisle who left the city this afternoon while the president and other members of the cabinet for New York, to be absent one week.

Mr Hamlin had a conference with Secretary Carlisle this morning and was made acquainted with the general policy of the treasury department, especially as regards the present gold question.

The situation today shows improvement. Gold in small quantities was offered this morning from several points and accepted. The policy of the treasure department will be to accept all gold offered, unless the conditions imposed are disadvantageous to the government.

Secretary Carlisle said this morning that there was nothing new to say of the situation except that he was daily receiving offers of gold, which he was accepting.

VICTIMS DYING

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 26.—Edward Wiemeyath, one of the victims of the collapsed building at Pearl street and Broadway Monday, died yesterday. His brother, Frederick, foreman of the bricklayers, is very low and cannot live. His back is broken and his skull fractured. William Thompson, another bricklayer, is also low.

The coroner finds that the accident was due to criminal carelessness on the part of the contractors in permitting the men to undermine the walls as well as constructing a four story building on a too story foundation.

DENOUNCE LYNCHING.

Public Meeting Held by Citizens of Columbia, South Carolina.

Resolutions Passed Censuring the Officers for Allowing a Mob to Lynch John Peterson.

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 26.—A coroner's jury late last evening rendered the following verdict in the lynching case of John Peterson, alias John Peter Richardson, came to his death by hanging and gun shot wounds at the hands of about 500 citizens, who intended to inflict the punishment of death upon John Peterson, alias John Peter Richardson, for having assaulted Miss Minnie Baxter on Friday, April 14, 1893, with intent to commit rape."

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 26.—A large meeting of citizens of Columbia last night denounced the Denmark lynching in the following resolutions

"Resolved, That in the lynching of John Peterson, at Denmark, not only has the peace and dignity of our state been offended but human life has been taken without even satisfactory evidence of guilt. We therefore denounce the act as meriting the unmeasured condemnation of all good citizens.

"Resolved, That said John Peterson, having surrendered himself to the governor of the state, pleading for protection, was entitled to have the strong arm of the state raised in his defense and that the last recourse of the commonwealth of the state should, if necessary, have been exhausted to insure him a trial before the courts of the state. We would therefore condemn the action of the governor in surrendering the accused to the irresponsible, or at least, incompetent persons to be taken into the precincts of an infuriated mob for the purpose of a mock trial, whereby the state has become participeps criminis in the murder of one of its citizens. And we do now therefore record this, our solemn protest, against all such acts of violence as destructive of peace, of well organized society and subversive of our christian civilization."

THE SUN.

McLEOD, the Reading Railroad magnate, was once a Duluth pop maker. Pertaps it was in the manufacture of tin clamps and inflating commodity that he learned those lessons of the immense profit at buching to "point" and "water" junk; closely combined which subsequently stood him in such good stead in his manipulation of the Reading stocks.

A HORSECAR was brought into Judge Campbell's court at 5 o'clock Friday recently, and the judge promptly turned him loose. The only evidence against the prisoner seemed to be that he had been caught with his hand in a stranger woman's pocket. Just why this evidence was not considered pertinent of course the average mind cannot hope to understand, but here after pickpockets who do not care for a chance of escape before Campbell's court will be neglecting of their own interests.

He Ignored the Sarcasm.

"This is a queer time to come home," she said

"I am glad to hear you say so, dear. The arguments of tonight you might think I was rather late."

RIGHT OF WAY.

Fort Wayne Physicians May Ask for an Ordinance.

Interesting Meeting of the Allen County Medical Society at the Masonic Temple Next Tuesday.

Invitations have been sent to physicians all over the county and to neighboring cities to attend the meeting of the Allen County Medical society, on next Tuesday evening, at the Masonic Temple.

The meeting promises to be very interesting, as the subject of "Cholera" will be discussed by our oldest physicians. At the conclusion of the discussion a banquet will be served. Among other themes which will come up will probably be that of asking the city council to pass an ordinance granting physicians the right of way in the streets when answering calls for their services. It often happens that a physician is hastily sent for in case of accident and so delayed by processions, railway trains and other obstructions as to be unable to render any assistance to a dying patient, who might otherwise be saved. Dr. C. B. Stetson, speaking of the matter this morning, said:

"The physicians in some European cities, or capitals have great privileges, especially in Berlin and Vienna, where they wear a certain bird which distinguishes them from other people, or their coachmen wear high light hats, which gives them the right of way. Every city in this country ought to follow the example set by New York, and give to physicians the right of way. I have sometimes been held at railway crossings for five minutes or more for some train to complete switching, when only a few squares away my patient was bleeding and suffering for the want of surgical attention. The surgeon should have had the right of way, the train should have been "cut" and the physician allowed to pass at once. It frequently happens that the timely arrival of a physician or surgeon may save a valuable life. Each city should pass an ordinance giving to all licensed physicians and surgeons the right of way at railway crossings or in crossing processions, etc."

MRS. HENRY BROOKS.

Her Death Occurs After a Very Long Illness.

This morning at 4 o'clock, at her home, 49 West Jefferson street, occurred the death of Mrs. Julia Brooks, the wife of Mr. Henry Brooks, of the Daily Staats Zeitung office, from a lung affection with which she has been troubled for several years.

She was forty-seven years old, having been born in Germany on the 24th day of March, 1846. She came to this country in 1865, first residing at Boston, and the year following came to this city, where she has lived ever since. On January 4, 1870, she was married to Mr. Brooks. They had one child who died, and the husband is left alone in his sorrow, but he has the sympathy of a large circle of warm friends.

Mrs. Brooks was a woman of many noble traits of character, and was universally loved. Two years ago, in the hope of benefiting her health, she took a trip to her old home in Europe. She returned greatly improved, but not cured. Three weeks ago her sickness confined her to her bed, and this she did not leave.

She was a member of the Adelphi Vereinen congregation. The funeral will take place Friday at 2:30 o'clock from the residence, Rev. Hirschberg officiating.

R. T. McDONALD.

He Hasn't Much to Say About Street Railroad Matters

(Indianapolis Journal.)

R. T. McDonald, the Fort Wayne millionaire, who was interested in securing a franchise from the board of public works for a route to Broad Ripple, came to the city yesterday. He registered at the Bates house and remained there during the day. Asked if he had come to the city in the interest of street railroad affairs, he had nothing to say any more than that he still had the lead at Broad Ripple.

"Will you go before the board and ask for a franchise again?"

"My application is still before the members of the board. I see that they have not granted a franchise for the streets over which I desired to enter the city."

Asked why he did not bid upon the franchise given to the City Railway company he stated that it was because of the fact that no franchise would be given for the Broad Ripple road under it.

NICE SHOOTING.

A Certain Woolsey, a Trapper, Cuts a Thread With a Bullet.

"The finest rifle shot that ever walked the soil of the West was a man named Wooley," said an old-timer, who lived near Yuma, Ariz., in the good old stage days of the West," said Wallace McLaurin. "This man Woolsey was originally from Ohio. He moved to Arizona in his early childhood.

"When he was about the age of 19 his father and mother were killed and scalped by the Apaches. He hid in the rocks and escaped.

"Five years later, when he was a mere boy, he went on the warpath for the Apaches, and he never spared one. He could not count exactly how many he had killed in his life.

"The last time I saw him was one day while the stage stopped to let the horses rest near Table Rock, on the Gila river, in 1872. His fame as a rifle shot had spread all over the West, and the mention of his name filled the Apaches' heart with fear and trembling.

"The passengers persuaded him to give an exhibition of his marvelous skill, and consented. He nailed a board on the side of a little shanty and put four bulls at a distance of 100 yards in the same place, without the difference of a sixteenth of an inch in two shots.

"He drove the nails far into the board with 100 more shots. Each one applauded. Then he took a cartridge and proceeded to "monkey" with a small thread fastened the target for the limb of a tree twenty feet above the ground, placed a small second rifle ball on the second and started the ball swinging to and fro.

"He waited until the ball passed behind suddenly he raised and fired.

"Well gentlemen, you may start on with the stage, for I have cut the only thread in the world's fair ball." It was in the universe of Woolsey's skill at that string in twain with his rifle ball, and make the bullet drop into the mouth of that bottle."

JUMPED FROM A TRAIN.

Charles Boyer, of Monroeville, Nearly Killed.

His Face and Head Badly Cut at the Nanna Street Crossing—Other Accidents.

At 12 o'clock today as Pittsburg passenger train No. 1 was entering the city, a young man named Charles Boyer attempted to jump from the train at the Nanna street crossing. The passenger was moving at a rapid rate and Boyer was thrown to the ground with great violence. He was picked up almost insensible and Dr. Kreider sent for. The young man's face was fearfully lacerated and the doctor was compelled to take nearly a dozen stitches in a cut which extended across one cheek. Boyer is aged about twenty-five years and says his home is at Monroeville. He was stealing a ride.

Just as the funeral procession was following the remains of the late John Blue over the Pennsylvania tracks yesterday afternoon a horse hitched to a buggy came tearing down Calhoun street. The occupants of the rear carriage of the procession leaped from their vehicle and frightened the horse so that it collided with a telephone pole and fell, half stunned to the pavement, where it was captured.

Henry Holtzen, a carpenter, was hurt on Calhoun street yesterday afternoon. He got tangled up in a rope which was trailing behind a farmer's wagon. He was dragged quite a distance.

THREE MEN KILLED.

A collar in Deerfield Park caved in this morning and buried three men in the earth. Louis Gray was smothered before his fellow workmen could receive him.

HUNTING THE LEPER.

Chief Wilkinson Very Properly Orders Officer O'Connor to Inspect the Famous Harrington Block.

It was reported upon the streets yesterday that the Syrian leper, mentioned first in Saturday's SENTINEL, was still in the city and had been seen on South Lafayette street and later at the well known Harrington block, on Fairfield avenue. Last evening at roll call Chief Wilkinson instructed Officer Dennis O'Conner, whose beat is on Fairfield avenue, to go through the dago headquarters and investigate. A SENTINEL reporter accompanied the officer and the Harrington block was searched from one end to the other. It was learned that the woman had been in the neighborhood but she could not be located on Fairfield avenue. It is now thought that Health Officer Miller quietly shipped her out of the city. The interior of the Harrington block is very dirty and filthy but there are no contagious diseases among the inmates. Leprosy is not a disease communicated except by contact.

WILL NOT OPEN.

The World's Fair Will be Closed on Sunday.

JACKSON PARK, Chicago, April 26.—Sunday opening of the world's fair came up in today's meeting of the national commission.

A resolution looking to that end was introduced by Commissioner King, of Iowa, and after much debate referred to the judiciary committee.

The members of this committee are opposed to Sunday opening and this it is thought ends the matter.

PRISON NORTH DIRECTORS.

M. B. Yontz, of Indianapolis, and L. H. Barnhardt, of Rochester.

Governor and Mrs. Matthews left Indianapolis for New York yesterday afternoon, to be absent for about one week. Before he departs the governor appointed L. H. Barnhardt, of Rochester, and M. B. Yontz, of Indianapolis, directors of the prison north. They succeed Levi Mock, of Bluffton, and James Renihan, of Indianapolis.

Mr. Yontz is an ex-councilman, and at present is a traveling salesman for W. B. Burford, state printer. He was congressman in the lobby of the last legislature. Mr. Barnhardt is editor of the Rochester Democrat.

Last evening about 6 o'clock the fire department was called in the corner of Wayne and Clinton streets. A chimney in the residence of Rev. Wagenblass caught fire and alarmed the family. No damage resulted. At the same time a chimney in a house on the corner of Fulton and Berry streets burned out and caused much alarm

TORTURING ECZEMA

Editor Iowa Plain Dealer Cured of the sufferable Itching and Pain by the Cuticura Remedies.

No Less Than Five Physicians Consulted. Their Combined Wisdom Followed Without Benefit.

I am sixty-six years old. I was troubled with an eruption of the skin which appeared first on my legs but subsequently extended to various parts of my body. The disease was accompanied by intense itching and burning, especially at night when I got warm in bed. It rapidly developed into a running sore, from which I suffered terribly. I had a number of physicians prescribe for me, but I grew worse all the time. I finally concluded to try the Cuticura Remedies. I bought a set of the Cuticura Resolvent, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, and before I had used one box of the Ointment I found relief. I continued the use of the Cuticura Remedies for about two months, when I was entirely cured. I have had no return of the disease since, and I feel sure that I never will have. I am perfectly willing that you should publish my statement, as I feel grateful for what your remedies have done for me. I have not spent more than $5.00 for the Cuticura Remedies, and I feel that I got my money's worth many times over. I am a poor man, and I cannot afford to pay large doctor bills, but I can afford to buy Cuticura Remedies, and I shall always recommend them to my friends. I am now in my seventy-first year, and I am glad to say that I am entirely cured.

W. F. MILLER.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 23rd day of February, 1893. [SEAL] JOHN L. THOMAS, Notary Public.

Logansport and Shelbyville are taking another wharf at closing the saloons on Sunday. Fort Wayne has taken several shirts at this herculean task and yet our saloons continue to do a thriving Sunday business.

Hon. J. C. New, the retiring American consul general in London, will sail for the United States on the 3d of June. Hon. Patrick A. Collins, the newly appointed consul general, will assume the duties of that office on Saturday next.

Chicago will do her best to keep the world's fair open on Sunday, and then, if successful in doing so, will do her best to retain the big appropriation voted by congress on the condition that the exposition be closed on the Sabbath. For unadulterated hoggishness Chicago takes the cake.

The city council took action last night looking to securing the immediate possession of the Swinney park. This tract of land does not come into the possession of the city during the lifetime of the Swinney children now living. It would be well for the city to purchase their interest if it could be secured at a reasonable price.

The wind sometimes cuts very queer capers. An old colored woman in the upper part of Madison county, Ga., owns a large wash pot, which she claims was turned inside out by a cyclone. She says the pot is as good as ever, only the legs and handles are on the inside now, and pester her when she stirs the clothes.

The government officials at Washington have concluded not to allow the original manuscript of the declaration of independence and the constitution to be taken to Chicago for fear of the injury or loss of those precious documents. A wise decision undoubtedly, and one that will meet with general approval.

Bellevue's birthplace is still pointed out to visitors in the little village of Bolton, Worcester county, Md. Not many years ago there were some remnants of the house, a rude cabin, that sheltered the future commodore at his birth. The Beadles were decayed poor folks and scrub-planting unnecessary.

A TRAIN-DISPATCHER who is critically ill in Indianapolis is a Cincinnati man. Ah, the other day, did we know how dear to us he was, he would be showered with flowers while he is yet able to smell them. Besides, it is better to write an obituary to speak than the old term "photographs." The word "photo" is a sort of base affair at the best, and is not the least bit refined. Might not the word "photograph" be adopted to advantage instead of the older and longer one?

The Middletown Lotus, which President Cleveland will occupy in the summer, was built early in the century. President Washington, a short time before the sale of the capital was selected, speaking on the scene of this old portion of the Lotus, remarked that the capital should either be built upon that spot or upon the spot which was afterward chosen. Several presidents have summered at the place, which is now known as the Middleton estate. Van Buren spent several summers there, as did Tyler and Buchanan.

Fire loss papers report that within the last six months 529 buildings, with a total of $3,850 houses, have been erected or begun for the accommodation of visitors to the fair in what is called the world's fair district, namely, in a district within walking distance of the fair grounds. To this must be added private houses and hotels already with in that region which will accommodate guests. It estimates that one hundred thousand people will be within walking distance of the grounds.

Net culture is attracting attention on the Delaware peninsula. An experimenter in the lower part of the state has been successful with English walnuts. Another has one hundred Japanese chestnuts that have just come into bearing, and has recently set out five hundred more. He is also experimenting with Persian, Japanese and English walnuts, and with pecan nuts and local nuts. In all he has six acres in nut bearing trees.

RAILWAYS AND SHOPS.

Mr. Pelhamus Human Interviews With a Frenchman.

Accidents, Incidents and Personal Mention of the People About the Railway Centers.

When the French engine passed through the city last Monday, A. H. Pelhamus, the road foreman of engineers of the Pennsylvania, boarded the train at Hanna street to examine the queer locomotive. On the car were a number of boys and a guard, the latter's duties being to see that the engine was not damaged in transit by the curious crowds who viewed it at every station. Mr. Pelhamus said to the guard

"Where was this engine built?

The man shook his head, but said not a word

"Can't you speak English?" inquired Mr. Pelhamus.

Again the guard's head moved in the negative

"Parlez vous Francais?" asked Mr. P. in pure French accents.

Another shake of the head was the only reply.

"Sprechen sie Deutsch?" was the next inquiry, and again the negative shake of the head.

"Sabe usted Espanyole?" was the next interrogation, spoken in Spanish.

The guide amusedly shook his head and as Mr. Pelhamus was not familiar with any other language he turned away and drove the crowd of boys from the car. Then he took a note from his pocket and was in the act of measuring the engine cylinders when the guard stepped up to him and said in a hoarse whisper, in pure English

"That cylinder is 17x21 inches."

"I thought you couldn't speak English," said Mr. Pelhamus.

"Well, I could when I left Pittsburg, but I have answered so many foolish questions concerning this French locomotive that my vocal organs are nearly paralyzed. To relieve myself I thought I would play 'French.'"

William Bopa, is inspecting cars for a car dealer at Columbia City today. This is the thirteenth trip on the same mission for Mr. Bopa since January 1. The Whitley county crop of freckle-eating animals appears to be inexhaustible.

The Daily Commercial of Columbia City says: "We were pleased to meet in our city today Mr. Humphreys, of Fort Wayne, the car wood inspector of the Pittsburg railroad. He is a son of the late Colonel Humphreys and appears to be a very nice gentleman."

The Pennsylvania company placed its world's fair tickets on sale yesterday. Mrs. D. B. Wells purchased the first one of them at this station and Miss Rose McCauley bought the first Columbian ticket issued from the Wayne station. Conductor James Brown, of train No. 35, had the honor of punching the first tickets.

Frederick Eggleston, a Lake Erie and Western brakeman, is under Dr. J. M. Dinnen's care. Last Monday, in making a coupling at McCoreo, near Muncie, Mr. Eggleston got his left hand between the drawbars and badly mashed. The index finger had to be taken off and the second finger is badly mashed, but will be saved.

The Pennsylvania company has made arrangements with the Louisville and Nashville to put on new trains between Atlanta and Chicago via Louisville and Indianapolis. At the present writing it is expected to get them on next Monday. In both directions they will be run on different time and faster than any trains now in service between these points, and will be as solid trains.

An error in THE SENTINEL last evening made the date for the wooden wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clenbrake, of 43 Boone street, next Thursday evening. The event occurred last night and was one of the most pleasant affairs ever occurring in Nebraska. Many appropriate presents were received by the jolly couple and the supper served to the guests was pronounced most delicious

Three cars, built at the Pennsylvania company's shops at Altoona, came in on No 1 yesterday and were cut off here. They were a coach of a new pattern, known as the "P. R." a track testing car and an inspection car. The dairy product car, built in the Fort Wayne shops, was run out and attached to the Altoona cars and the four formed a unique train, which ran to Chicago last night as the second section of No. 2. The cars form a part of the Pennsylvania company's world's fair exhibit.

The Pennsylvania company has large repair shops at Logansport. Concerning the rumored suspension of a number of shopmen, the Journal of that city says: "Since the 15th inst all overtime, excepting the most necessary, has been stopped at the Panhandle shops. There is a rumor afloat that the officials are considering the plan of cutting the working hours down to nine as a measure of retrenchment. There is, however, plenty of work and if the reduction takes place it will probably be short lived. Would fair business will begin in a week or two and the employes will get their share of the benefits derived therefrom"

Among the acts passed at the late session of the Ohio legislature was one permitting railroads to construct elevated tracks in cities. It is now learned that the Pennsylvania company was the prime mover in getting the law passed, and that it was a preliminary step to constructing an elevated track from its present terminus in Pittsburg to a point near the heart of that city. The Pennsylvania company has also decided to replace the present bridge across the Ohio river, by which it connects with the Louisville and Nashville road, and which also makes a wagon road from Cincinnati to Newport, with a modern structure. Probably the work will be undertaken in the early part of the summer

Our genial friend Mr. N. E. McKinnon, chief lineman for the Pennsylvania company, with his estimable wife, a few days ago moved into their elegant new home, No. 72 East Williams street. The house, at present, is not quite completed, but when all the embellishments necessary to a finished home are added our only Mac will hardly know himself. With great propriety he can take unto himself a comfortable degree of pride in being the possessor of such a beautiful home in a pleasant part of the city.

A highly satisfactory trial trip of a car lighted by the new railway electric lighting system was made Friday over the Central railway, of New Jersey, from Newark to Roselle and return with a car which was equipped with the westervelt lights and machinery, and which has already been run over 2,000 miles of track on a test. It is an ordinary railroad passenger coach, in which there are twenty-five eight-candle power incandescent lamps, one of which is in the dynamo room, an apartment ordinarily used for other purposes. The dynamo gets its power from the axle. The superfluous electricity generated is stored in batteries under the car so that at any given time there is sufficient electricity on hand to supply the lights four hours without the train moving. The machinery weighs about 900 pounds. The system is the invention of two Newarkers, each about thirty-five years old. It is the outcome of nearly four years' work.

HE WAS AN OLD SETTLER.

One of the Elephants Which Roved Among the American Glaciers.

Geologists agree that many thousands of years ago—they do not agree on the number of thousands—great ice fields, like immense glaciers, moved out of the north over a large part of the United States and Europe. These glaciers were so thick that they have left on the top of the White mountains boulders which they have carried hundreds of miles, and they have much to do with shaping the hills and valleys of New York, Pennsylvania and New England. The marks made by these glaciers as they ground their way over the rocks are still plainly visible in many places, and it is easy to trace the large bowlders they carried northward to regions where such stones occur in large quantities.

There were days of great things, says Harper's Young People, and among the huge creatures that roamed about in the region of the advancing glacier was the Elephas Americanus, or American elephant. Part of the skeleton of one of these animals has lately been unearthed at Card Junction, Mo., and sent to the Washington university. These bones show the animal to have been from twenty-five to thirty feet long and fifteen feet tall. It fed on trees and bushes, and a wagon-load of pine branches and cones would have made a light supper for this monster. Its molar teeth had grinding surface of nine by four inches in size, and its tusks were nine feet long. Coarse, long hair covered the big fellow from head to toes, and a quart of such animals must have been an impo-ing sight, even in the presence of the mighty glaciers.

In a cave in France has been found, scratched on a bit of ivory tusk, a rude picture of one of these prehistoric incumbents. The picture is supposed to be one of the oldest known, and was made by some savage boy who was more clever than his fellows but who lived in a cave, ate raw meat, and wore scanty clothing made from the untanned skins of wild beasts which the filthy and savage man of those days of times killed with his rude weapons. It may be, therefore, that human intelligence and living animal pieces of bones elsewhere were dug the other day from beneath twenty feet of soil in Missouri.

GROVE HER INSANE

"Turn-a-loom-de-ay" Proves Too Much for a Kansas City Girl.

Alma Nordstrom, a pretty young swede of Kansas City, has been so afflicted upon the score of "turn-a-loom-de-ay" that she has sung it continually, until the repetition drove her insane. She was visiting a friend the other evening, when she suddenly jumped on the keyboard of the piano, threw furniture about, and danced wildly while she sang "loomde-ay" at the top of her voice. Physicians and policemen were called, but as it was impossible to quiet the woman she was removed to the hospital, where she keeps repeating the dreadful melody, so that everybody in there is also threatened with insanity.

Jones—Well, I am, but I'm not a blamed fool.

"I am, ma'am, but I'm fighting for the heathen Chinee."

MARKETS OF THE NATION

Sensational Opening of the New York Stock Exchange.

Quotations from Different Points in the Country for Those Interested in Live Stock and Grain.

New York, April 25.—The sensational opening of the stock exchange, set to be rocked this morning was the break in Toledo, Ann Arbor and North Michigan of 5 per cent to 15. Subsequently a rally to 17½ ensued.

The break was due to the statements by Vice President Ashley that dividends had been called. The stock figured to be unconstitutional. The money was borrowed to carry out a plan to make the road a trunk line to connect him with the Lackawanna. There are a number of privileges outstanding, which are given in an attempt to bull the stock. The general market was slightly weaker in sympathy.

Another Story.

"I had a hard time in life through picking up pennies in the street. I had been offered employment by a soldier, and on the very next day I was a poor man. Oh, Donaldson! What a chestnut! Pa, you've heard that story on others. I'm tired of hearing it. Why don't some boy improve on it? Why don't some boy, when he finds a penny, say: 'Ah, I'll pick up this penny and make a fortune out of it?'"

"No, I'm the pleasant product of a different story. I'm a self-made man. I'm a diamond in the rough. He, he, he! Ha, ha, ha! Ho, ho, ho!"

YARNS OF HUNTERS

Two Marksmen Tell Since The Founding the Storage Has Been.

The tales that are told the sportsman after they have returned from the pursuit of game are often almost too wonderful to be true, and it is difficult when listening to the good fellows who narrate them to believe that there is any intention on the hunter's part to deceive.

Some of the yarns that I heard of the Kalamazoo hunters during a recent visit to Paris, and it is said that a resident of a small town in the South of France, who had spent a considerable part of his life among the unsophisticated people of that land, discharged his shotgun many times without result, except eight, on his way home, at a respectable distance from the game, and was very well satisfied. The hunter's gun was charged with powder, but he was entirely out of shot.

In this emergency, and wondering greatly that he would have to go empty-handed on the ground, took out his pocketknife, and with it pulled out all the feathers of the wings of his game. With these he loaded his gun. The pigeon sat in his place. The hunter aimed, fired, and the pigeon was mailed to a branch of the oak tree with the silver nails. The hunter was almost in despair, seeing the game fastened apparently beyond his reach. But he climbed the tree, and with admirable dexterity to the place where the pigeon hung, and found just nails in the bird of it, which he had left feathering and fell through the tree.

An chance would have it, the hunter landed in the midst of a hare's nest.

He began to roll rapidly down the steep and slippery hill side, but before he did so he secured as large a hare as he could lay his hand on. Then rolling forward, he took a long jump a convoy of partridges, and striking about him with the hare, he succeeded in killing nine of these admirable birds.

He then picked himself up, and took himself homeward with his pigeon, his hare and his partridges, well satisfied with the results of his day's sport.

This is almost as wonderful, really, as that old, old story of Baron Munchausen, who, when hunting for deer upon one occasion, encountered a magnificent animal, but, like the Frenchman above, found himself without shot. Happily gathering a handful of cherry stones, he loaded his gun with them and fired at the deer, hitting him squarely between the eyes, but killing him. However. The deer managed to escape for some time later the baron encountered him again, and was surprised to see a beautiful cherry tree growing out of the animal's forehead, covered with blossoms and fruit. It is supposed that the Baron Munchausen story is not true, but the other is claimed to be so, although we may all have our private opinion on the subject.—Harper's Young People.

A Use to Animals.

Husband—I like to see you wearing that smile all the time.

Wife—Do you know why I do it?

Husband—Well, not exactly.

Wife—It is because a frown would not match the lovely gown you gave me.

A Minister's Wife Much Pleased.

Elder S S Besser, of McAllisterville, Juniata Co., P., says his wife is subject to cramp in the stomach. C. M. Hawkins, the newly appointed postmaster at Marion, gave notice that all his assistants would be displaced, and he forwarded to Washington the names of those whom he desired to take their places. The thought struck him that the change under the supervision of the civil service commission, and that a new examination would be held May 6 to determine names of applicants. Mr. Hawkins canceled a purpose to close the carrier shop upon all the old attaches served notice that when he took possession they would create vacancies by voluntarily retiring. This indicates that there will be considerable rookies in when the new supplants the old in that city.

ETIQUETTE OF CARDS.

A Few Words on a Subject That is Very Vexing.

Current Events of Interest to People in Society's Circles—Mrs. D. L. Handley's Tea—Other Affairs.

To begin with, the correct detail of cards is to be thoroughly studied out, the servant who waits on the door, she or he must be taught to receive them at the door, remember messages and recollect for whom they are left. In calling at a private house you should never order the name of the party for whom the visit is intended upon the card, though this is allowable in hotels. In returning visits observe the exact etiquette to the person who left the first card. A call must be returned by a call, and by post by a card by post. If your acquaintance leaves cards only, without inquiring if you are at home, return the same courtesy.

A married lady always bears her husband's name during his life on her card. After his death she may still retain his name if she desires, but her Christian name is a more desirable alternative, as there may be a son who is married and who bears his father's name, therefore with the absence of the letter "Jr," the two ladies' names will be apt to become confused.

No lady should leave cards for an unmarried gentleman except in the case of his having given entertainments at which ladies were present, then the lady of the house should call at the door and leave the cards of herself and family. A gentleman should always ask for a young lady's mother or chaperon when calling upon her, and should always leave a card for the elder lady whenever he leaves one for the younger. After all entertainments, ever trifling, cards should be left within a week. Within ten it is not considered necessary to leave a card, but a return fee should be given as soon as possible.

THE CALLIOPEANS.

The Bridgegrooms Set Up a Dance and Get the Laugh on Them.

It was on Saturday (I regret), not a two weeks' drive from New Portland, Maine, that these lines were sung when it was rumored all of the people would get married. He seemed to delight in running a company of boys and girls to a house where a merry party of couples were cavortly shooing and seldomly awakening them with the impression that all the bread of Hell was leaven.

She was a good-natured fellow and as many good qualities, and so it was natural that he himself should let some the shares of a pretty woman and get married. As he had been a ringleader in the sport the word was given out, and the men from all over town came down and went up to Steve's house at midnight. Every one but one old gun in the town was there. The affair hung heavy and dark with gunpowder smoke after a battle-field after a few rounds. All was dark and quiet in the house, and the serenaders kept it up till morning.

"We don't get out of it that way," they said, and teams scurried along the country highways in every direction that day summoning the clansmen to the bombardment. They got there early that night. No one fired a gun till all was ready, and then it came like a crash of lightning with accompanying thunder.

It was 12 o'clock when Steve came to the door, rubbing his eyes and looking at his half dressed condition as if he had just got up.

"Why, fellows, I didn't know you were here. I just heard a noise and thought that it might be you, and so came out. Come in, you fellows, and be at home. I hain't got much, but I have a little good cheer. Come in, I say, and make yourself at home."

In they came, and Steve lighted all the lamps. Now, what he had was a barrel of cider into which the dog before he had pointed all the rum and whisky it would hold. They all took hold and drank it up. Above stood around, urging them to take some more. "Don't be skeery of it, fellers, there's more down stairs." Some of them knew when they took the first glass that it was loaded, but they didn't pay any attention afterward.

Well, you ought to have seen them swill that stuff. Why, there were men there drinking split apple juice and whisky that today are holding very high places in the synagogue. Along toward morning they commenced to meander out toward the village. When the sun came up next morning those good people were laid along beside the road like a tired regiment that shows upon its arms.

By noon most of the men were taken away and carried home by their friends. When they came to and met on the street corners to talk serenade again they thought that Steve had rather got ahead of them.
